

Definition of “Visiting Intern”

A “visiting intern” is a graduate student who is satisfying curriculum course requirements that are counted toward the completion of the individual’s degree from another accredited institution. The purpose of the “internship” is to provide the student with experiential learning in the field for which s/he is preparing.